PET INSURANCE RECOMMENDATIONS

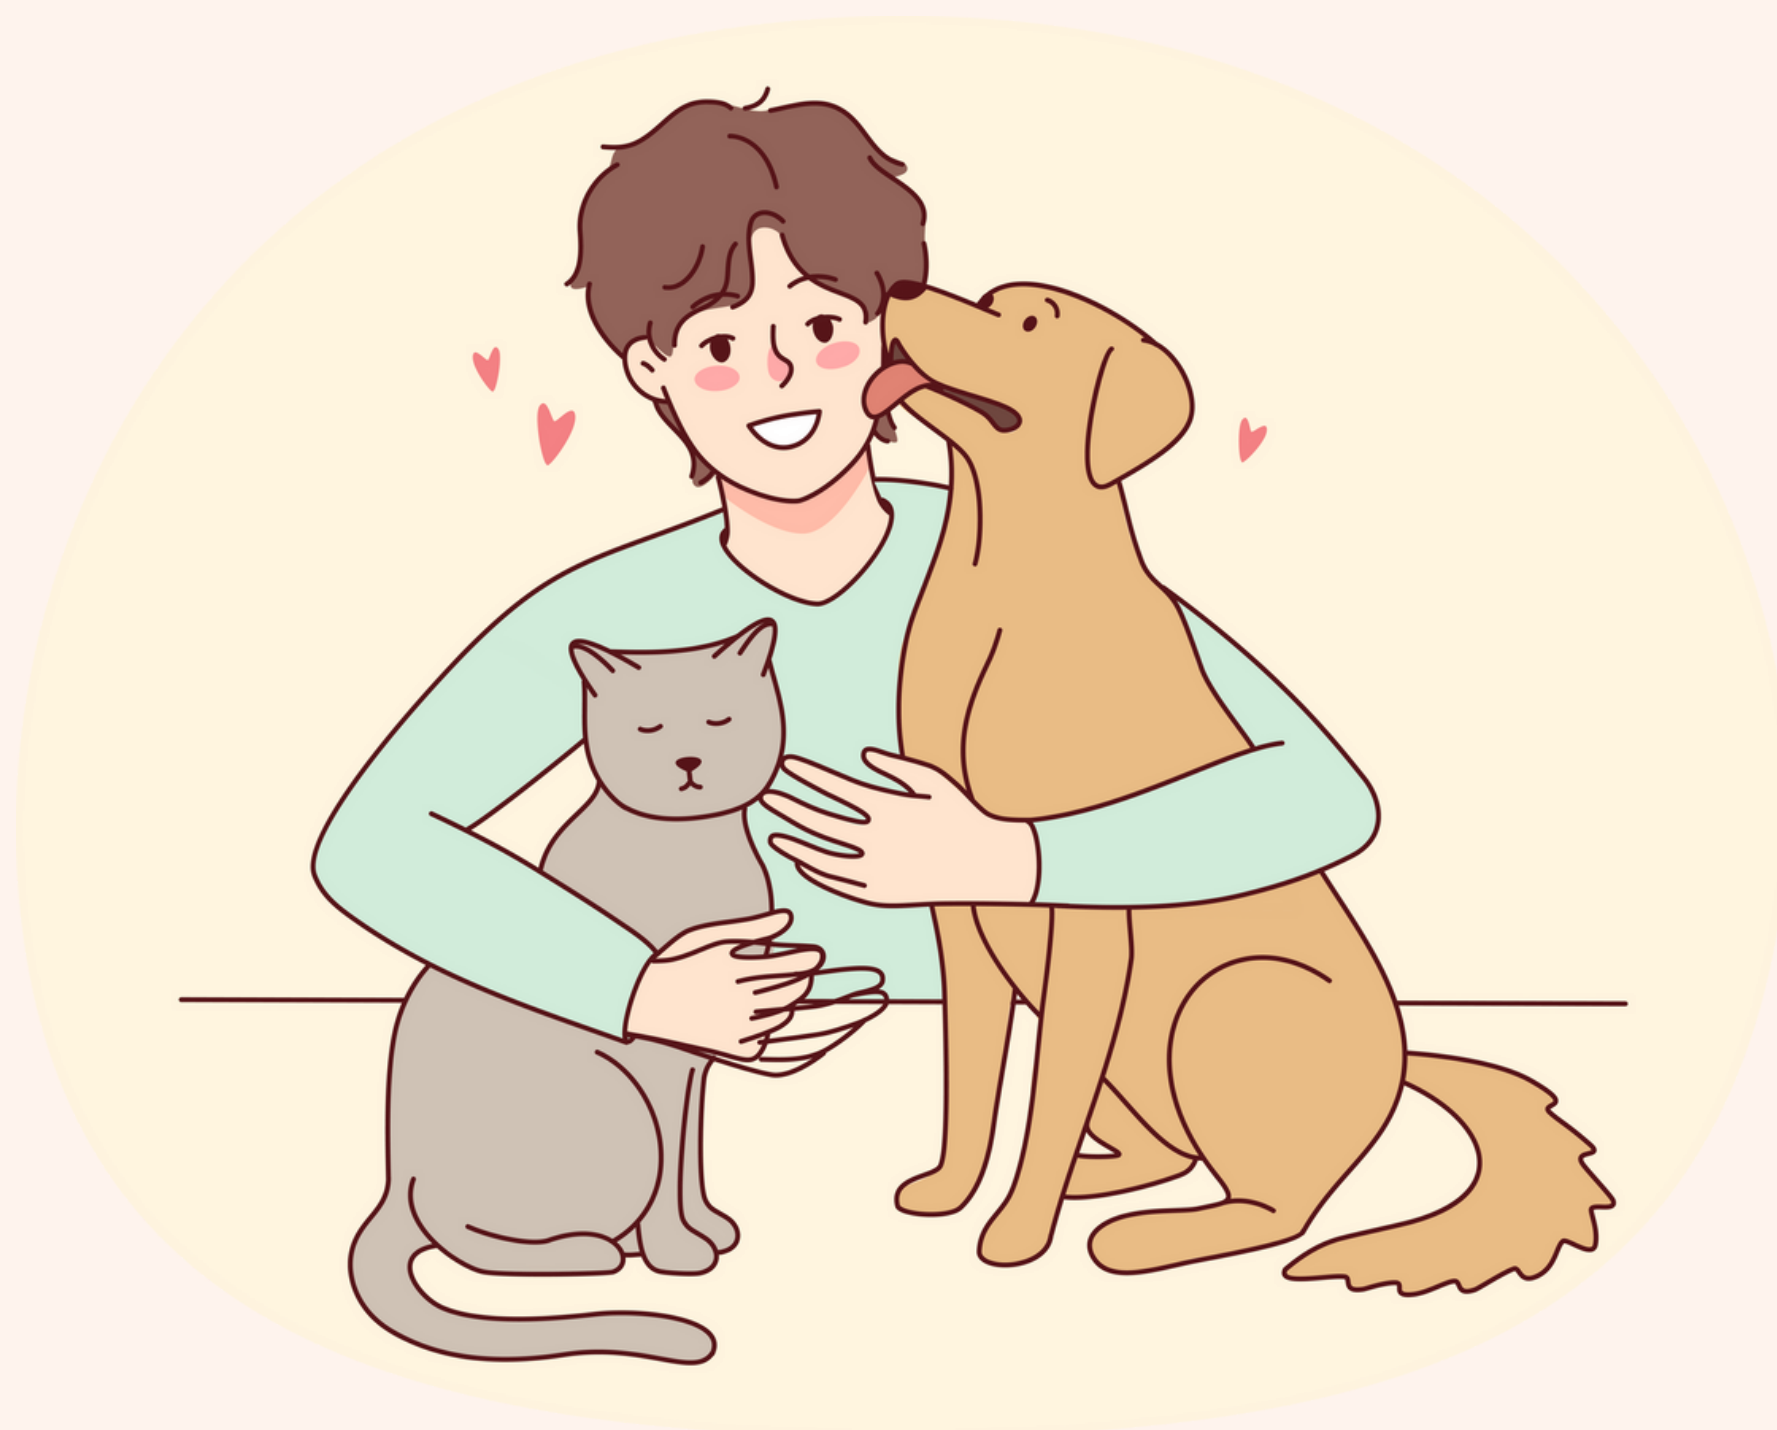

These are only a FEW of the MANY insurance companies available.. TIP: Check with the insurance company to see if they offer pet insurance policy to bundle and save with your current policy!

REMEMBER...

Pet insurance companies generally cover emergencies, illness or injury, surgeries, hereditary or congenital conditions, cancer, medication, and chronic conditions. Some will also cover holistic or alternative therapies (chiropractic, acupuncture, etc).

No pet insurance company will cover pre-existing conditions.

Most pet insurance companies will require you to pay for the entire invoice, then they will send you a reimbursement check after receiving your pet's claim form.

Need help choosing the right company/coverage for your pet?

NAIL TRIMMING

Get your dog used to having their feet touched from an early age!

Use sharp nail clippers to cut the tips of each nail at a slight angle.

If you accidentally cut into the quick, apply kwik-stop powder (or cornstarch or baking powder) and apply pressure.

Common Household Poisons

MEDICATIONS & SUPPLEMENTS

pain killers, cold medications, anti-cancer drugs, antidepressants, vitamins, diet pills

HOUSEHOLD CLEANERS, PESTICIDES, FERTILIZERS, AND POISONS

lawn chemicals and fertilizers, rat poison, antifreeze, citronella candles, pool chemicals

FOOD

chocolate, coffee, onions, garlic, raisins, grapes, avacados, and xylitol (common in gum)

PLANTS

english ivy, calla lily, jade, carnations, nightshade, daffodil

If your pet consumed something that you think may be toxic, call the ASPCA Animal Poison Control Center at 888-426-4435

Signs of Dental Disease

The breath test

Sniff your pet's breath. Normal dog and cat breath isn't particularly fresh-smelling, but if it's especially offensive then it is a good idea to get them checked out by a vet.

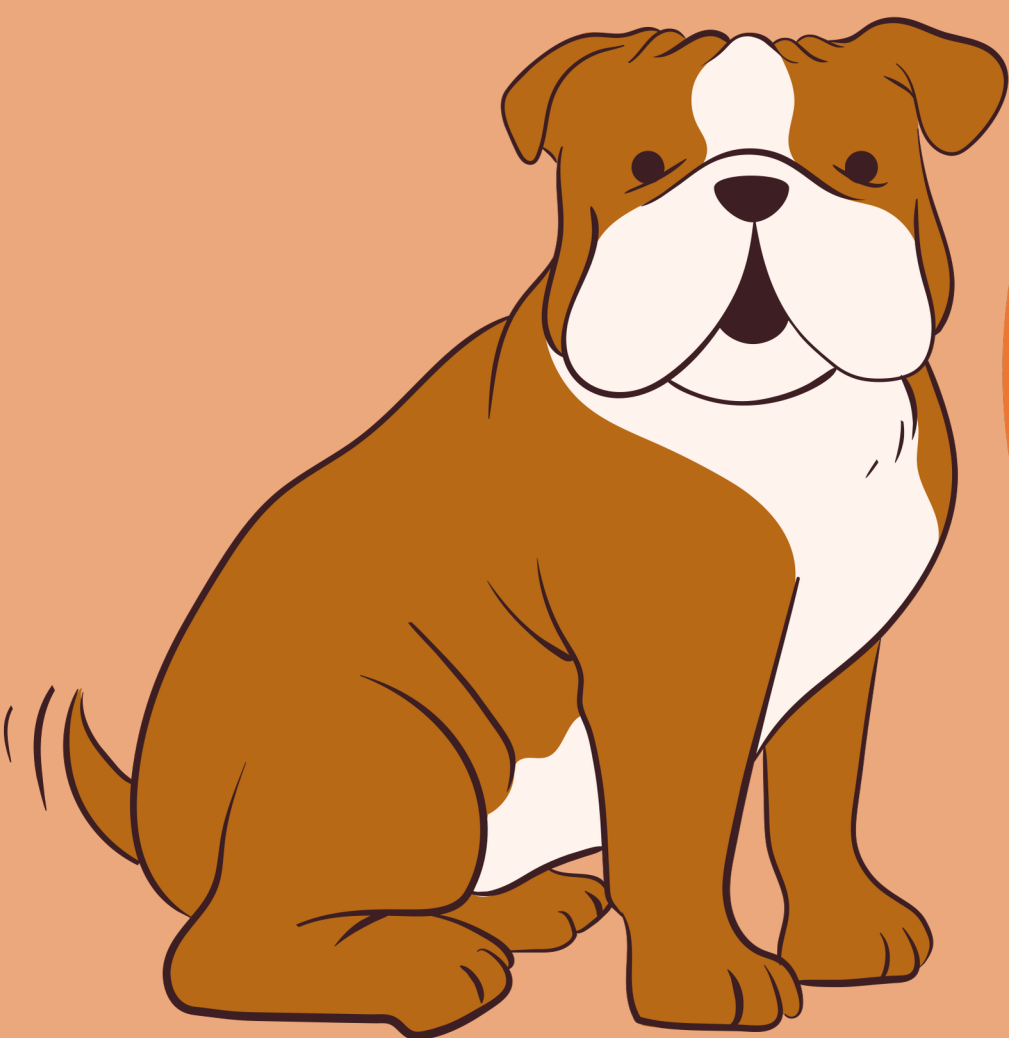

The breath test

Once a week, lift the lips and examine your pet's gums and teeth. The gums should be pink not red. The teeth should be mostly white without large amounts of brown tartar.

Tooth decay

Bacteria and plaque can harden into tartar, possibly causing gingivitis, receding gums, and tooth loss

Recommended dental care products:

Dental wipes

Dental treats and chews

Dry dental diets

Oral rinses and water additives
